DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 2 recites the sheath formed of a “soft material”. The specification provides no guidance on what this term means. “soft” is relative and thus the claim is ambiguous.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 1-2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by USPN 6,726,868 to Panfili et al. and as evidenced by USPN 5,516,143 to Lang et al.
4. Panfili teaches a tool comprising: a handle (7, Fig. 5 and associated text) having a first color pattern thereon (1, Fig. 5 and associated text); and a transparent first sheath (3, Fig. 5 and associated text) of polypropylene or Santoprene® thermoplastic elastomer, equivalency to soft material as it's molten resin injection molded, (col. 4, lines 25-38, col. 5, lines 14-16) completely exhibiting a portion of the first color pattern enclosed therein. Panfili teaches the sheath is of Santoprene® but does not refer to it as transparent. Lang is used to show evidence of molded Santoprene that is a transparent plastic (col. 2, lines 57-63 of Lang). Claims 1-2 are met.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over USPN 6,726,868 to Panfili et al.

7. Panfili does not expressly disclose a second sheath having a color pattern different from the first applied prior to the first sheath, while Panfili teaches numerous patterns are on the rear end of the handle and explains either one or several words, names, numbers, logos, symbols or any combination therefrom may consist of the pattern for aesthetic reasons in order to attract customers by its visual appearance (col. 3, lines 14-35 of Panfili).

Thus, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to have a second sheath included as claimed in different colors because Panfili teaches numerous patterns are on the rear end of the handle and explains either one or several words, names, numbers, logos, symbols or any combination therefrom may consist of the pattern for aesthetic reasons in order to attract customers by its visual appearance (col. 3, lines 14-35 of Panfili). Thus further adding a second sheath is optimizable as it effects the overall design and improves aesthetics to attract customers thereby resulting in the instantly claimed invention as it has been held that discovering an optimum value of a result effective variable involves only routine skill in the art. In re Boesch, 617 F.2d 272. Additionally, the mere duplication of parts has no patentable significance unless a new and unexpected result is produced.

Further to the order of “putting the second sheath prior to the first” is a process limitation in a product claim. Product-by-process claims are not limited to the manipulations of the recited steps, only the structure implied by the steps. Patentability of an article depends on the article itself and not the method used to produce it (see MPEP 2113). Furthermore, the invention defined by a product-by-process invention is a product NOT a process. In re Bridgeford, 357 F. 2d 679. It is the patentability of the product claimed and NOT of the recited process steps which must be established. In re Brown, 459 F. 2d 531. Both Applicant’s and prior art reference’s product are the same.
